Semi-automatic indexing for quality-conscious indexers and authors

With TExtract you create the back-of-book index for the printed and ebook editions of your book in three steps, using a unique combination of automated and manual indexing:

1. Just drop a PDF version of your book onto TExtract. The initial index is created fully automatically. Running through the text to mark entries is not needed.
2. You edit and expand the index using powerful and easy to use in-context navigation, selection and editing features, available in no other software.
3. Then you export the formatted index, review it and include it in your document.

Working with TExtract the indexing process is supported from the outset by the index itself. But you, the indexer, are in control. Your index can be ready within a day - but you can spend as much time as you think necessary. Read about the features of TExtract and about the differences with other software.
